Eli – Age 15

April 20, 2020

Quarantine has been a pretty wild experience for me. I always wondered what it would be like to live through a major historical event. Now I have the answer, and unfortunately it's a lot more boring than I thought.

Throughout quarantine, I've been trying to fill the empty space in my day where real school would go by spending my time learning and getting better at as many skills as I can. I am now playing more guitar then ever as well as starting to pick up some other instruments. I've spent a lot of time trying to get better at both graphic and web design.